INTRODUCTION

The Chairman of the Board of Directors, Mr. Joaquin Estrada, delivered the following welcome message:

CEMEX Holdings Philippines fellow shareholders, our Board of Directors, management and staff, guests, good morning and welcome to the 2018 Annual Stockholders' Meeting of CEMEX Holdings Philippines.

In 2017, our first full year as a publicly-listed company, we saw many changes take place in the market and in our company. On the one hand, our vibrant economy has presented a new era of opportunities for growth. After a slow first half in 2017, cement demand has picked-up in the second half and has continued to do so this year.

On the other hand, however, we have also seen new dynamics in the Philippine market presenting challenges both for our company and the industry altogether. With more entities, including traders, trying to serve the increasing demand, we are faced with more complex competitive forces. In addition, volatility in fuel prices and costs of other inputs have put pressure on our margins.

These developments highlight the need to continuously become more efficient, productive and agile in our operations. For sure, the Philippines remains a very promising market within the global CEMEX group. Among the major markets where CEMEX operates, the country provides one of the brighter outlooks with the industry projected to expand by 8-12% in 2018. In addition, outside of Mexico where CEMEX's headquarters is based, Philippines is identified as a market where CEMEX should be investing and expanding.

These speak well of the commitment of the CEMEX global group to the Philippine market and its operations. We know we can play a big role in helping the country put up more infrastructure to alleviate many lives of Filipinos and we are excited about the future of the country in this respect.

All told, when we weigh in on the opportunities and challenges, we know that we can continue our story of priming ourselves for growth in the Philippines. I would like to express our great appreciation to you, our shareholders, for choosing to be part of this story.

You can trust that your Board of Directors and management will remain as committed as ever to put ourselves in a position of growth through our various initiatives and programs aimed at improving operational efficiencies, customer service as well as strengthening our finances. As always, we shall do these while keeping in mind our values of prioritizing health and safety, and promoting sustainability within our company and more especially, in the communities we work in.

Again, we thank you very much for your continued trust and support.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Good morning to all my fellow shareholders and thank you for joining us today. We appreciate the time and effort you have given to be with us in this meeting as I provide you with important information and updates about our company, particularly on our performance in 2017 and what we can look forward to in the coming years.

Let me start by highlighting the driving force behind our company, CEMEX Holdings Philippines or CHP.

At the core of our operations is our unified purpose with the CEMEX group of building a better future. As shareholders of CEMEX, you also become part of making the future better for the Filipinos, our customers, and our stakeholders.

For many decades, we have offered high-quality products and innovative solutions in cement and concrete that support and drive sustainable development and improve communities where we are present.

We are a company that puts utmost priority to health and safety in our working environment. We do not compromise in this respect. CEMEX is also known for putting customers need at the core of its business.

We could characterize 2017 as a fairly challenging year for our company. Demand was slow to pick up at the start of the year following the 2016 election year. In the same period, we experienced pricing pressures from the participation of more players in the cement market, including, in some areas, traders that source their materials from abroad.

In response to these new dynamics, we optimized and recalibrated our operations and distribution.

As a result, we achieved 21.8 billion pesos in net sales, 3.3 billion pesos in operating EBITDA, and 659 million pesos in net income, all of which were lower than what we recorded in 2016.

Our domestic cement volumes declined year-over-year during the first half, but we managed to recover in the second half, ending the year with around the same output in 2016.

Our domestic cement prices declined 10 percent year-over-year. More importantly, the erosion of prices was arrested as we saw them stabilize in the last five months of 2017.

Our ability to be both resilient and dynamic was tested last year. But challenging times do present opportunities for us to re-evaluate, recalibrate and strategize. Ultimately, what we see is a market that will only continue to grow and expand. For this reason, we believe that the initiatives we have put in place in 2017 have made us geared for sustained value creation to help meet the country's growth requirements.

The expanding economy provides us with great opportunities. The country continues to grow at a fast pace, bringing with it heightened demand in the construction industry. The importance that the government has put on infrastructure spending has built a very good framework for a positive outlook for our operations.

With this, we can leverage on both our strong and tested core values as a company and a strong and expanding economy as well.

Health and safety is and will remain our top priority. In the company, we always say that we want our employees to go to work happy, and go home from work happier. The first place to start is by going home safe to our families and loved ones.

We constantly work towards our ultimate target of zero injuries worldwide or our Zero4Life commitment. We always gear our efforts to uphold our commitment to achieve an injury-free workplace.

Annex A

In 2017, we recorded zero employee lost time injury and zero total recordable injuries. As a result, APO Cement has now achieved 11 years with zero employee lost time injury.

To make management more involved, we made monitoring of safety as one of our major performance deliverables. We encouraged everyone, from front-liners to support units, to promote safety awareness and provide insights on how plant operations can be improved.

We also fortified our customer-focused culture in 2017. CEMEX Philippines implemented initiatives to provide a superior customer experience to its partners.

During the year, we realigned our commercial group from being product-centric to one that is more customer-segment focused. We now have dedicated teams to work with our institutional and retail clients, realizing that their needs can be different.

We also established a customer experience office to focus on continuously finding ways to better our services. In 2017, we instituted the net promoter score to give us better visibility on the views of our clients on the services we provide.

In addition, we provided customer trainings on safety, product and marketing management.

CEMEX's customer centricity philosophy will continue to take centerstage in our operations. This year, we shall be launching CEMEX Go, a digital solution that will provide a seamless experience for placing orders, tracking shipments and managing invoices and payments for CEMEX's main products. CEMEX Go has been rolled out in Mexico and the United States and will soon be launched here in the Philippines.

CHP constantly seeks to provide sustainable value by producing excellent products through exceptionally efficient operations. Our cement plants notched several records in 2017. The kiln in Solid Cement Plant was number one in efficiency amongst the 87 total kilns in the entire CEMEX system worldwide. We also made modifications to increase the clinker production capability in our APO Cement Plant. Overall, our kilns produced at high efficiency rates at above the 90% level.

On the cost side, we hedged our coal requirements for 2018 close to our average price in 2017, giving us greater cost predictability amidst rising coal prices in the past months. We also continued to use alternative fuels, such as refuse-derived fuel, in both our Solid and Apo Cement Plants. Converting waste to energy not only reins in our costs but more importantly, helps in the overall effort on recycling and protecting the environment.

This year, we are working on debottlenecking our production and supply chain processes to increase our throughput capacity by half a million tons. We have seen initial progress from these efforts as loading rates at our port operations have significantly improved in the first quarter of this year.

Furthermore, just this March, both Solid Cement and APO Cement plants reached record cement production levels, while Solid Cement achieved milestones in bagging and dispatch output.

Meanwhile, in March 2017, we tapped Sinoma Energy Conservation of China to build and operate a second waste-heat-to-energy facility, following the successful implementation of this technology in our Solid plant. The 4.5MW waste-heat-to-energy facility, once completed, can generate up to 25,000 megawatt hours annually from the plant's converted kiln. The facility is expected to reduce the impact of power service interruptions and our dependence on high-cost energy sources. It will also lower the cement plant's carbon footprint and support our contribution to a better and greener planet.

Together with greater productivity and efficiency, we need to put up additional capacity to supply growing demand. We are happy to report that in December 2017, we secured from the Department of Environment and Natural Resources, the Environmental Compliance Certificate for our Solid plant expansion. This approval ushers in the near-term construction of the new cement line to produce an additional 1.5 million tons annually.

Our estimated total investment for the new cement production line is at about 225 million dollars.

Annex A

We are encouraged to see that as early as the first quarter of 2018, we have already experienced positive results. We achieved our all-time highest quarterly sales volume, as well as all-time highest monthly sales volume in March, beating record volumes that were set as recent as the third quarter of last year. Our first quarter operating EBITDA of 886 million pesos, and operating EBITDA margin of 15%, are our highest in the last four quarters or since the second quarter of 2017.

We understand that our vision of building a better future expands beyond our operations. As we have in the past, we continued working on promoting the growth and welfare of communities we operate in.

Among the initiatives we did in 2017 towards this end include TSEK or Tamang Segregasyon at Edukasyon para sa Kalikasan in Rizal province which aims to educate local communities on proper segregation and waste disposal through information campaigns, seminars and capacity-building programs. TSEK has been launched in the towns of Baras, Cardona, Morong and Tanay.

We also launched KKK or Kalusugan. Kaligtasan. Kahandaan, a lecture-workshop on disaster preparedness, first aid, nutrition and family planning. It also included the donation of medical equipment to various communities, including digital infant weighing scales, mobile blood pressure monitors and fetal dopplers, among others.

We continued our 'Experto Ako!' training program for masons nationwide to enhance their knowledge on current cement technology trends and construction skills needed to be competitive in the market today. To date, over two hundred masons have graduated from the program.

H.E.R.O. or 'Help, Engage, Reach out!' is our employee volunteerism program. Through HERO, our employees were able to participate in various Brigada Eskwela events nationwide organized by the Department of Education, as well as our annual Christmas Wish program for underserved children in our host communities.

CEMEX Philippines Foundation likewise took active roles in different thought leadership and sustainability fora organized by partners such as the League of Corporate Foundations, Philippine Business for Social Progress, Philippine Business for the Environment and the Public Relations Society of the Philippines.

There are many lessons to be learned in the past year. The imperative to be dynamic and efficient in the face of both opportunities and challenges cannot be overemphasized. While we need to be deliberate in our actions, we also need to be willing to innovate and be ready to take on the risks that sometimes go with innovation.

I believe we have a strong team in CEMEX that can lead the company to new heights. Your continued trust and support will continue to inspire us in this journey.

With a growing market, and the initiatives we have put in place, we believe that we are indeed primed for growth in the coming years

Thank you.
